My name is Simona. I am a cheerful and sociable girl. I have many friends. What do I like to do after school? I'll tell you now. I study music, I play the piano. I really like to dance, I have already mastered flamenco, hip-hop, modern dance. I am actively engaged in sports. Tennis is my favorite sport. And equestrian sports. And do you know how much I like to study at the model school! I learn so much there - and style, and makeup, and how to behave properly in front of the camera and of course catwalk. That's how interesting I live

My name is Aiden Adams. I am nine years old and will be ten in November. Family and Friends know me as AJ. I am apart of the Germantown Giants in Tennessee. I played shortstop most of my baseball career. As a member of the Germantown Giants in Memphis, I was introduced to third base and pitcher. My batting average is .404, on base percentage is .541, 20 singles, 12 doubles, 4 triples and 2 HomeRuns in our 2021/2022 season. I was introduced to baseball at the age of 4 years old through T-

Ball. My goal are to make it professionally as a baseball player. I dreamed of this many days and nights. I've won 5 tournaments total. 2 with Dubois Academy in Nashville and 3 with Germantown Giants in Memphis with 1 runner-up. My biggest Challenges is living while maintaining my academics. I am an A-plus student and want to maintain that all while living in my baseball dreams.

My name is Lil. I am 9 years old. I practice baseball. It's the game I enjoy the most. I train daily in the morning for couple of hours when I don't have my school. I want to be a professional baseball player.

The only challenge I have currently is my age, I think, it's little too earlier to choose my field. Though I'll keep on playing this game.

I am currently scheduled to do three women's physique pro shows in 2022 and qualify for the Olympia in 2023. In addition to being an IFBB Pro, I am the CEO of Kaiser Medical Management, the owner/coach of LenoreGregson.com, an RN, and a published author. I focus on the goal in front of me and chip away at it till I accomplish the goal. That simple.

Hello! My name is Danielle and I started archery on my fifteenth birthday. Three years later I was World Number One. I held onto this position for the rest of my career, taking the gold medal in the Beijing 2008 Paralympics and retaining my title on home soil in London 2012. As well as five World Championship titles, I became the first disabled athlete to represent England in an able-bodied discipline at the Commonwealth Games, and won a gold medal with my team.

Growing up, I had a very long list of hopes and aspirations for my future, but never in a million years did I think I'd have a career in sport. This was because I didn't see people like me winning or losing in sport. Other than a handful of tennis players and perhaps the odd skier, I cannot remember seeing any other female athletes on TV. I didn't read about them in books, and I didn't hear about them in the playground. There were no visible coaches, referees, or support staff either.

Stereotypes affect how boys and girls see themselves and their roles within society. Opportunities are lost, passions are denied and potential unfilled because of the belief that 'it's not for someone like me'.

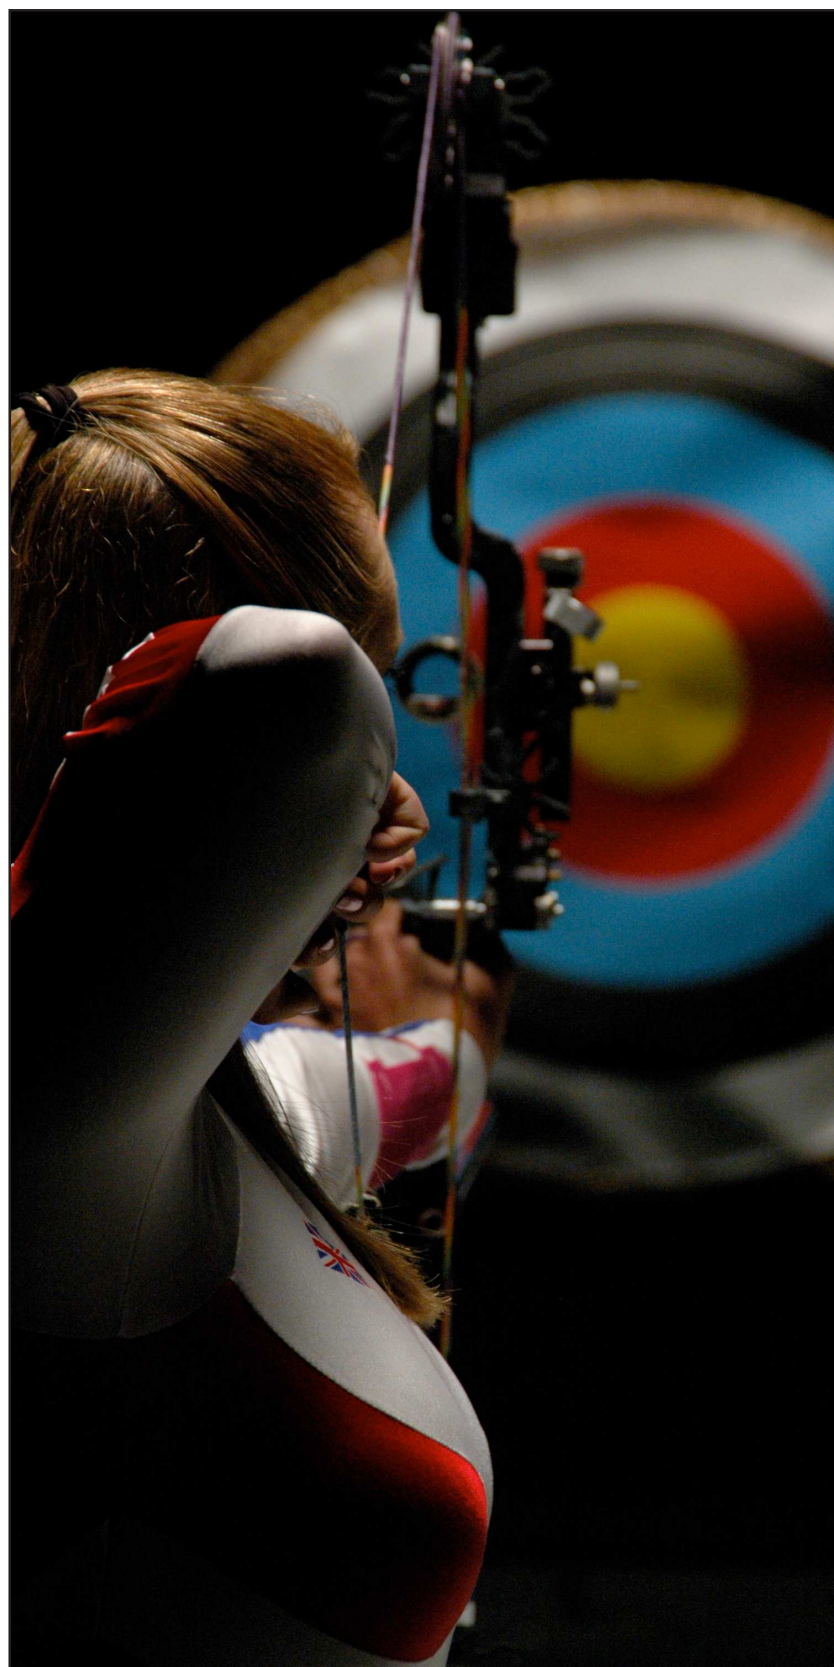

When I retired from sport I wanted to change this. I wrote Run Like A Girl, a book that features 50 true stories of female athletes from around the world, because representation matters. We need a space where we can see women succeeding, thriving, failing, bouncing back, and testing the limits of human endurance to change perceptions and rewrite harmful narratives. There are so many fierce competitors, comeback queens, trailblazers, thrill seekers, change makers and barrier breakers who deserve to have their story told - and the young people who deserve to hear from them.

My dream is to use stories and inspiring role models to support the next generation. We can all achieve incredible things if we are given the right opportunity and, for me, the biggest privilege of being a Paralympian is getting to put something back.

My name is Jean-Michael Corrales. I am playing baseball since I was 5 years old. My dream is to become a professional baseball player. My favorite player is Aaron Judge #99 of New York Yankees. One of my biggest goal is to be part of New York Yankees some day. For that I know I have to work hard and dedicate 100% of myself to baseball, and that is the biggest challenges a baseball player can have. Throughout my short career at baseball I have achieved to be one of the best catcher of the league. At Miami Youth Baseball Batting League Leaders statistics, which records the statistics of all teams in south Florida, I am in 8th place with an average of 0.561. Which placed me at 1st place on the list within my team.

My big dream is to be a doctor or a professional baseball player, to give my parents a house, and to have them forever to always be with them.
